ÎLE DE
Noirmoutier

ISLAND TOURIST OFFICE

Playful, she teases kitesurfers in search of a thrill with her winds. Spontaneous, she makes suns bloom in winter and egrets dance in the marshes.

Generous, she offers her miraculous peaches on market stalls.

Sincere, she's the keeper of vacation memories, of summers of first times and shared joys.

Creative, she's the muse of her artists, bringing them to life in paintings, tales and shells deposited by the tide.

Welcoming, it brings together islanders, day-trippers and generations.

Intensely alive, undeniably vibrant, it shines with its thousand and one treasures and resonates through those who know it and bring it to life.

Have you ever met it?

It's the island of Noirmoutier.

LIVE THE NOIRMOUTIER
EXPERIENCE AND DISCOVER THE ISLAND'S TRUE SOUL

A trip to the island of Noirmoutier is a true voyage for the senses. Awarded the "Remarkable Site of Taste" label for its gastronomy, you'll experience tantalising food. Its famous new potato is grown in the north of the island, between Le Vieil and L'Herbaudière, and served alongside oysters from the Bonhomme oyster port and fish caught off the island at dawn.

Fresh fruit and vegetables carefully selected from the stalls of local producers bring a touch of colour to the local cuisine. Not forgetting, a sprinkle of fleur de sel, the "white gold" harvested from the salt marshes on the island.

On the island, the ocean is a state of mind. With its winds and tides, it is much more than just a landscape. It is a part of life that you can experience all year round, through watersports and sailing. Old rigs continue to sail the waters off the island of Noirmoutier, offering a reminder of its rich maritime past. Their colourful canvas sails form a gorgeous scene against the backdrop of blue sky and sea, dotted with kite surfers seeking thrills in the surf along the shore. Life by the ocean is a tête-à-tête with the force of nature, an experience for all the senses where the wind whispers tales of adventure.

Sea Air

On the island of Noirmoutier, every breath is a breath of the sea's energy. In the salty sea breeze, you can feel the caress of pure ocean air on your face. Each new day, here, begins in the Bay of Bourgneuf in the east. At sunrise, the natural landscape is illuminated in soft light. Think golden sand, deep blue waters and green forests. To admire the sunset, you'll need to head west. With the touch of fine sand beneath your feet, you'll catch sight of the last rays of sunlight disappearing into a sky painted in shades of orange and pink. Pure poetry.

Relaxation

Untouched natural beauty interwoven with a thousand years of history give the island of Noirmoutier a special charm. Do you feel it? Visitors enjoy strolling the island, with no other aim than to relax and have a good time. From the Hotel Jacobsen museum to the old seafarers' district - the Banzeau - via the pretty shop windows of local artisans and Noirmoutier's stylish boutiques, you'll experience a whole other side to the island. It's about taking things slow and clearing your mind, so that you can let go and completely unwind.

Sights

Experiencing the true soul of the island means flying across the water on a kite board, pedalling through the marshes, and admiring the boats sailing into L'Herbaudière harbour. It means being moved by the sight of birds enjoying their protected habitat, and having a good laugh on a sunny terrace. With such a rich natural environment and unspoilt beauty, the island of Noirmoutier has so many amazing sights, sounds and smells to savour.

Sounds & Smells

In spring, on the island of Noirmoutier, a ballet of scents awakens the senses. The paths are adorned with the yellow glow of wild mustard and the winds carry with them the heady scents of the Sebastopol polder. Between the joyful parade of birds and the painstaking work of the salt workers preparing their salt fields for the coming harvests, a very special atmosphere reigns here. In this magical season, escaping to the island becomes an experience for the senses, where every moment reveals the richness of nature's awakening.

LE GOIS

The meeting of two currents is at the origin of this disappearing and re-appearing causeway. The submersible track – once the only way to reach the island – can only be crossed at specific times of the day, depending on the tides. The most beautiful time of day at Le Gois is sunset.

THE WINDMILLS

More than just mills! For centuries, their great sails twirling in the sky told sailors the direction and speed of the winds.

THE VILLAS OF BOIS DE LA CHAISE

In the 19th century, members of high society could order a Bois de la Chaise villa from a catalogue. The pretty names of the villas reflect the change of scenery and serenity to which the owners aspired.

THE SÉBASTOPOL POLDER

The history behind the name: The polder, which was completed in 1856, takes its name from the famous battle won that same year. Today, it is a 133-hectare nature reserve, offering an enchanting habitat for plants and animals.

THE SALT MARSHES

Here, artisan salt is so precious that it used to be referred to as white gold. Today's salt workers have inherited this age-old savoir-faire and put it into practice every day in the salt marshes.

L'HERBAUDIÈRE HARBOUR

In the early last century, the sardine canning factories also played a role in shaping the landscape of the island of Noirmoutier. They brought in Breton workers who left their mark on many of the island's houses, naming them "ker" or "home" in Breton.

THE CASTLE

Built to protect the monks and people of Noirmoutier-en-l'Île from successive invasions, the château is nowadays quite rightly listed as a remarkable heritage site.

NOIRMOUTIER-EN-L'ÎLE HARBOUR AND THE JACOBSEN JETTY

In the 19th century, the port of Noirmoutier-en-l'Île was busy with merchant ships. Salt was traded for building materials and it was this white gold that allowed the island to develop economically.

THE BANZEAU DISTRICT

This district is one of the oldest on the island. Once located in a flood zone, the Banzeau district takes its name from the French for low water ("basses eaux").

Always

ISLAND

No matter the shifting winds and tides, there's always a perfect spot to be found.

Alexandre loves:

- ♥ Nature's surprises, like last spring's northern lights.
- ♥ The Sableaux spot at Fort Saint Pierre for slalom and racing.
- ♥ Learning about Noirmoutier's past—its traditional songs, dances, villages, and the culture of centuries gone by.

Alexandre, windsurfer.

ISLAND

She becomes a muse for her artists, who interpret and draw inspiration from her.

Fanny loves:

- ♥ The energy of the locals, always eager to bring creative projects to life.
- ♥ That unique feeling of being in the countryside by the sea, yet never far from the city.
- ♥ Drawing inspiration from the island and everything around it for her creations.
- ♥ Enjoying the sunset at Anse Rouge with family or at Luzeronde with friends.

Fanny Ottavy, jewelry designer.

L'Herbaudière

ISLAND

We reinvent memories every year!

Bertille loves:

- ♥ The simplicity of family vacations, bike rides, walking on the beach or in the marshes, the polders, the port charm of L'Herbaudière...
- ♥ The family passion for sailing at the Bar-bâtre school, where her son started at the age of 4 and is now an instructor.
- ♥ Letting herself be surprised by the island. A windy place in summer can suddenly become magical in the off-season thanks to its calm or its different light.

- ♥ Watching the boats come in and out of the harbor from his waterfront home.
- ♥ Taking the time to show his sailors the infinite riches and many facets of the island.
- ♥ The excitement of August 15 in Noirmoutier is the Fête de la Mer and... its birthday!

David Penisson, fishing boat owner and captain.

SPORMTANCOUS ISLAND

The island is experienced through all five senses.

Joël loves:

- ♥ The variety of the island's landscapes: foreshore, dunes, forests, salt marshes, polders, agricultural areas - each place has a different flora and fauna!
- ♥ Folk traditions, such as the storytellers at l'Epine. The idea is to improvise completely absurd stories in all seriousness, and to keep them going as long as possible.
- ♥ Keep the oral heritage alive with patois expressions: when you're fishing on foot, be careful not to "goiser dans les marzelles" (Editor's note: put your feet in the puddles).

Joël Léauté, former salt worker

WELCOOMING ISLAND

Here, we greet everyone who crosses our path!

Gabriel loves:

- ♥ Showcasing local artists in his programming at Les Salorges.
- ♥ Winter on the island of Noirmoutier, which gives it a different face.
- ♥ Riding his bike, eating oysters at the port of Bonhomme, and heading down towards the ornithological zone near Pointe de la Fosse.
- ♥ The feeling of always discovering and learning something new every day, even three and a half years after arriving.

NOIRMOUTIER SALT

Salt and salt farming have formed a harmonious link between man and nature for generations and are an integral part of the heritage of the island of Noirmoutier. As well as its culinary role, sea salt from Noirmoutier Island embodies a veritable philosophy of life, marked by respect for nature and its preservation. Originating from ancestral know-how, this delicate art handed down from generation to generation, is the result of the salt workers' hard labour, generous sunshine and a perpetual sea breeze. Coarse salt, fine salt, flower of salt, flavoured salt... The producers of the Noirmoutier Island salt cooperative cultivate salt in all its forms, using strictly respected methods. Noirmoutier Salt is harvested by hand and neither treated nor washed, so it retains all its richness in trace elements.

THE NOIRMOUTIER POTATO

A must-try speciality, the Noirmoutier Island potato is a coastal potato with a very distinctive flavour. Nurtured by a mild climate and sea air, our potato thrives on the sandy soil that Noirmoutier farmers enrich with seaweed. That's what gives it its distinctive taste. Nestling in the vast plain to the north of the island between the towns of Le Vieil, Noirmoutier-en-l'Île and L'Herbaudière, the potato fields are sheltered from the wind and frosts, resulting in an exceptionally light potato. The island's local markets and the Noirmoutier-en-l'Île farm cooperative are the best places to buy this delicacy.

FISH

On Noirmoutier Island, fish has pride of place. The village of L'Herbaudière, in particular, has a strong fishing culture, which continues to resonate with the greatest chefs today. Every morning, the boats of the island's fishermen set out in search of fresh, noble fish to tantalise the taste buds of lovers of fine cuisine. Flagship species of the island's fishermen include pollack, red mullet and sea bream, alongside which you may find sea bass and sole depending on the day's catch. To keep the flesh of the fish tender, the fishermen of the Noirmoutier Island maritime cooperative pride themselves in employing a gentle line fishing technique that does not stress the fish. To enjoy this array of fresh fish, you'll need to visit the island's restaurants, whose chefs put them to use brilliantly in their own exquisite dishes.

OYSTERS

Oyster farming has developed particularly rapidly over the last fifty years, finding fertile ground on the foreshore surrounding the island, in the Bay of Bourgneuf, off the coast of the Bonhomme oyster port, in La Guérinière. Some forty local producers in the Noirmoutier oyster producers' cooperative ensure the continued excellence of this age-old tradition, producing exceptional local oysters. The quality of the environment, combined with the ancestral know-how of producers, is the key to Noirmoutier oysters with their delicate flesh and incomparable saline flavour. As well as oysters, the island of Noirmoutier offers a wide range of shellfish, and a simple drizzle of lemon or shallot vinegar is all it takes to reveal their rich flavours.
